High Prices Don't Necessarily Mean

High Prosperity

They tell me the Democrats are going to run their 1952 campaign on the "full dinner-pail" issue. You know, Vote for me and full employment, vote for the other guy and starve to death.

It's been a long time since America heard that old campaign war cry. It used to be the private property of the Republican party. That's all the Republican orators talked about when I was a boy growing up in Pennsylvania, and my natural reaction to such stupidity was to register as a Democrat when I came of age.

All parties have their troubles. The Republicans came to grief when, in their pursuit of high prices and high prosperity, they pushed through one last tremendous increase in the tariff rates — and helped break the solid economy of America and the world. Traders became afraid of the towering price structure — and sure enough, it collapsed on the hapless head of Herbert Hoover.

The Democrats face a similar reckoning today. For two decades they have been monkeying with the production machine, looking at the world through the bars of a dollar sign instead of letting industry and commerce make their own measurements in terms of useful work and finished goods.

Prices have risen so steadily that the average citizen suspects the government, far from being disappointed in the trend, welcomes it as an excuse to set up additional control bureaus and employ still more of the voting population — a not unusual manifestation of the old political formula: Heads, I win; tails, you lose.

Is this merely my imagination? Hardly. Everyone in America outside of the war industries is complaining about making more sales but earning less money — a repetition of that "profitless prosperity" which heralded the 1929 crash.

High prices don't necessarily mean high prosperity. You would think that from the retail price of beefsteak the meat industry of America is making a great fortune these days. But the reporters have just released the 1951 report of the largest packing firm in the world — Swift & Co. — and it makes grim reading.

Swift had the largest sales and the poorest profit of any year in the last five. In fact, the profit was so low that in order to pay a dividend at all it was necessary, instead of plowing back some of the earnings into the business, to deplete it by nearly 2 million dollars.

What have high prices done to Swift's business? In 1947 the company had 24 billion dollars of sales and earned 1 1/2 cents on the dollar. At the 1951 price level Swift sold 2 1/2 billion dollars of meat products but earned only half a cent. The per-share earnings for stockholders was cut in two.

You hear this same story the length and breadth of the land, in all kinds of businesses, big and small.

Maybe government could do a better job of running the people's lives if it dropped all pretense and simply grabbed the factories and packing houses and set them up openly as state socialism enterprises. But that's something the people wouldn't stand for — and yet this business of being half-socialistic is disastrous.

The Democrats may fancy the idea of rattling the old dinner-pail — but a cautious politician would keep a sharp ear out for the danger signal: When the customer starts bawling it.

Negro Burglar Connected With Walters Job

An attempted burglary at Frank Walters Garage has been cleared up according to Chief of Police Clarence Baker.

Rufus Shaw, 24-year-old negro, jailed Wednesday for the burglary of Dixon Service Station, has been proved guilty of that break-in also, Mr. Baker said.

The garage safe was completely ruined with a torch and apparently the burglar had been scared off before he got it open.

That clears up all the recent burglaries in Hope with the exception of two and we have reason to believe they are connected with the others, Mr. Baker said.

Cow Killed When Truck Forced Off Road, Hits Pole

A truck driven by Jess Morris of Hope left the highway, struck a telephone pole yesterday east on Third Street, inside the city limits, the Police Department reported today.

Officers said Morris was attempting to pass another car and was forced to take to the ditch by an approaching third car. He was unhurt but the truck was badly damaged.

A cow which he was hauling was killed in the wreck, investigating city officers said.

Reds Stall to Give Russia Time to Shift Talks

Panmunjom, Korea, Jan. 5 (UP) — Communist truce delegates stalled today, apparently to give Russia time to try to get armistice negotiations shifted to the Security Council.

The Reds for the third straight day refused to budge in their categorical rejection of United Nations proposals for a ban on airfield construction and a voluntary repatriation of all war prisoners and civilians during a truce.

Both subcommittees sank to a new low in exchange of insults between the Communist and U. N. delegates over blame for the stalemate in the talks. The day's only agreement was to meet again at 1 a. m. tomorrow (9 a. m. today EST).

Rear Admiral R. E. Libby said it was obvious the Reds were killing time in the meetings pending new instructions from Pyongyang, Peiping and Moscow.

It was believed the Communist delegates had been ordered to stall while Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky and his Communist associates try to push their proposal at the U. N. General Assembly in Paris to shift the truce talks to a high-level Security Council meeting.

Western delegates in Paris are determined to block the Soviet move.

In the prisoner subcommittee, Libby told North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sung Cho that "no man can be as obtuse as you appear to be except deliberately."

He countered all Communist arguments against the U. N. plan for voluntary repatriation of war prisoners and civilians and added: "Your analysis is faulty, your arguments specious and your conclusions wrong. Outside of that, it was a good piece of work."

In the prisoner subcommittee, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner bitterly informed Chinese Gen. Hsieh Fang:

"You have cast yourself in the role of a bandit who tells his victim he has nothing to fear from me so long as you surrender your purse and walk away without creating a disturbance."

"We have no intention of walking away under the threat of your development of air power during the armistice and leaving the Republic of Korea to your tender mercies."

Hsieh angrily retorted: "You have gone too far in your arrogance. You have reversed black and white. You have fully exposed your ugly ferocious features of a bandit."

Turner said the Allies never would consent to an armistice which permits the Reds to build or repair airfields in North Korea.

"If you want airfields, try to build them now, during hostilities," he challenged. "Try to build them, but keep your eyes open for Allied planes while doing so, for the air surrounding them will be brought with danger."

"Try to build and watch your efforts disintegrate. When you find — as you have found — that you cannot develop airfields during hostilities, you will give up your futile efforts to gain through negotiation what you cannot gain through battle."

As the debate waxed hot and strayed far from the main point, each side accused the other of representing "bandits" and of starting the war.

In the other subcommittee, the Reds again rejected the U. N. plan for voluntary repatriation of all war prisoners, interned civilians and displaced persons during an armistice.

Diggers Set to Go Back to Coal Mine

West Frankfort, Ill. (AP) — Jan. 5. "You must forget — you can't sit back even after a disaster like this."

The words are those of Sherman Whitlow, president of the United Mine Workers' local union which lost 119 members in that tragic pre-Christmas coal mine explosion.

Like the others who escaped the Dec. 21 blast, Whitlow is ready to go back to work in Orient No. 2 as soon as it reopens.

"Sure, it will be a long time before we get over it, but they'll all go back," Whitlow said today. "It's in their blood."

Mayor C. Edwin Hair of nearby Benton put it a little stronger. He said:

"Yes, the miners will all go back. In fact, there will be too many applicants for every vacancy created by the explosion."

Whitlow concedes it's hard to explain the stoic attitude of a coal miner. Perhaps, he said, it's easier to point out it is the only life he knows.

About 1,100 men were employed at the mine before the disaster, some 200 of them on the night shift when the blast struck.

A spokesman for management — the Chicago, Williamington and Franklin Coal Co. — doesn't know when the mine will reopen but he said it won't be until after an investigators' report is completed. He added that may be next week.

The report is being prepared by federal and state officials who investigated the explosion, which they said was set off by ignition of methane gas.

What about the widows of the blast victims? All the funerals are over and most of them appear to have recovered from that first bitter shock.

Both Mayor Hair and Mayor Louis Harkins of West Frankfort said few would leave.

The United Mine Workers handed out $110,000 in burial payments from the union's funds. In addition, each widow was given at least $30 for immediate needs.

On Monday, the State Industrial Commission will begin work on claims under Illinois compensation law. The claims are paid by the operators of the mine to widows and other dependents of the victims.

Airlift Ready to Bring POWs Home

Tokyo, Jan. 5 (AP) — A giant airlift is being organized to speed home the 3,198 American prisoners of war held by the Communists in North Korean POW camps — if they are released.

It is unofficially dubbed "Operation Homecoming."

The men will be given medical examinations then flown immediately to Japan for care and rest.

A man in good health should be flying home within about five days after his release.

"Every effort will be made for the medical care and physical welfare of our men," said Col. George Patrick Welch, official spokesman for Gen. Ridgway's headquarters.

Their speediest possible movement back home has been arranged for and will be carried out.

The planes will fly at least two routes from Japan to the United States but the number to be sent over each probably won't be decided until the airlift is about to go into operation. One route is over the Central Pacific to San Francisco via Honolulu. The other is the northern route to Seattle via Alaska.

The British command in the Far East, part of Ridgway's command, also has drawn plans to evacuate all or most of the 919 British prisoners by air.

So far, no agreement has been reached between the U. N. and the Communists on actual release of prisoners.

Armistice negotiators at Panmunjom have been wrangling over the issue for a month and there appears no likelihood of any exchange before a full armistice goes into effect.

Indications are that the main exchange of prisoners will take place at the truce conference site of Panmunjom. It may extend over two to four weeks.

Additional prisoners may be released at various points along the 145-mile fighting front. These would be soldiers captured in the last days of the fighting who had not been taken to stockades in rear areas.

From Panmunjom, Allied prisoners will be taken to Seoul, about 42 road miles south of Panmunjom, then flown to Japan.

On arriving in the United States, those in the regular Army probably will be given 30 to 60 days leave. Those whose enlistment time has expired are expected to be discharged from the service.

Sick and wounded prisoners will be given transportation priority.

FBI Jails 500 Seek Others Dope Peddlers

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP) — Federal agents prowled through the sinister narcotics underworld today, seeking even bigger game than any of the 500 suspected dope peddlers already seized in a sweeping nationwide dragnet.

Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger said the roundup, which started before dawn yesterday and continued around the clock today, is laying the groundwork for capture of some of the nation's biggest illicit drug dealers.

A grand jury investigation already under way will lead to capture of some national racket kings within three weeks, Anslinger predicted.

He added he couldn't say where the jury is working because "if we even mentioned the name of the city, some of the men who are talking will be killed."

Meanwhile, the commissioner gave credit for the biggest mop-up of dope peddlers ever staged to undercover men who pose as illicit dealers. They work their way into the heart of the crime world, risking their lives to put racketeers behind bars.

About 100 federal agents and 200 government-paid informers are remaining underground to continue the cleanup, he said. Scores had to give up their roles of danger and intrigue to make the arrests and appear in court with evidence.

Anslinger said illicit drug traffic has been dealt a crippling blow. The drive is aimed especially at suppliers of teenage drug addicts.

An alarming increase in drug addiction among youths "has been halted," the narcotics chief said. He added 50 of those arrested were women.

The raids started before dawn yesterday in San Antonio, Texas, and spread with precision timing to most of the big cities across the country. About 100 peddlers were caught in Texas alone, 50 in New York, 50 in Philadelphia, and 30 in Washington.

Some who escaped are being sought today by agents with arrest warrants.

The crackdown was prepared so secretly there was no violence, even though some dope peddlers "are the most vicious type criminals in the United States," Anslinger said. "Many of them are killers. They are quick with a gun or knife."

Anslinger said the United States crackdown is tied to a drive to close down European sources for drugs. Italian secret service agents are doing a "magnificent job" on this score and Charles (Lucky) Luciano, deported U. S. underworld czar, is under investigation, the commissioner added.

Each arrest represents an actual purchase of drugs by agents posing as dealers, Anslinger said.

The Senate Crime Investigating Committee first centered attention on growing drug addiction among teenagers.

The committee gave the nation a first-hand picture, through television of high school students describing the horrors of the habit.

Shortly afterward, Congress passed a law imposing much stiffer penalties on convicted dope dealers. The new law makes prison terms mandatory — at least two years for first offenders, five years for second-time offenders and 10 to 20 years or third-time convictions.

Congress also voted funds to raise the number of narcotics from 180 to 275.

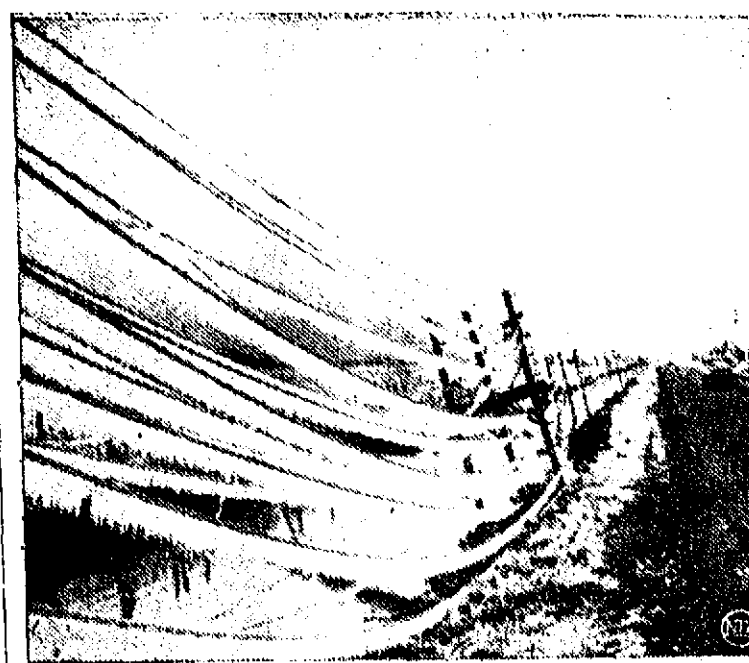

Crete Romeo and Bride Part Angrily

Athens, Greece, Jan. 5 (AP) — Crete's cave-man Romeo and the Juliet he carried off to the hills and married are living angrily apart because they disagreed about where they should live together.

According to reports of police and relatives, which kept extra editions rolling off Athens newspaper presses last night, Tassoula Petragerogi, the 20-year-old bride, insisted on living in Athens.

Every Cretan Kephalyannis, her husband, tried to persuade her to stay at Ieracelion, on the island of Crete, because of his business interests there.

Tassoula went home to her father.

Agent Tells of Splitting $20,000 Fees

Boston, Jan. 5 (AP) — Daniel Friedman of New York, who identified himself as an insurance salesman and financial adviser, testified yesterday he split $20,000 in "fees" with Dennis H. Delaney, deposed Massachusetts collector of internal revenue.

At the conclusion of yesterday's testimony, the trial of Delaney — was charged with accepting $12,500 to influence tax cases and with falsifying that $100,000 in tax liens had been paid — was adjourned until next Tuesday.

Friedman, a prosecution witness, testified about a $5,000 "fee" he said came from Morris and Harry Bookley, brothers, of the Massachusetts Steel Treating company, Worcester, which was having tax difficulties.

Friedman said he divided the fee with Delaney, who then told him the Bookleys firm owed approximately $100,000 in tax liability.

The New Yorker testified Delaney then told him that it might be possible to reduce this liability "and therefore it would be possible to get an additional fee from them."

Friedman also testified that the Bookleys gave him an additional $10,000 in checks, which he eventually destroyed because he was not certain he could obtain the reduction.

Despite Everything There Is No Doubt That the Situation in Korea Is Much Better

By HAL BOYLE

New York, Jan. 5 (AP) — It is a thing of terror and strange beauty to see a great city abandoned in wartime.

It was that way a year ago this week in Seoul, when the Allies yielded the Korean capital to the calm and studied counterattacks of the enemy 16 miles north of the city. But when we returned late that afternoon the press camp was breaking up and the order went out:

"Pack and leave immediately. The army is pulling out tonight."

Several correspondents, including Dwight Martin of Time Magazine and myself, decided to remain overnight and watch the withdrawal.

It gave us an eerie feeling as we stood at the entrance of the empty Hotel Chosun, one of the largest hostels in Korea, and watched flames licking at the newspaper plant across the street.

Fires began to break out all over the city and a smoke all quickened the twilight. Night fell. The pavements echoed with the roar of tanks and guns being wheeled out of the city. It seemed impossible that mere masses of enemy riflemen on foot could force all that vast weight of metal armor backward — but they were.

The fires mushroomed into acres of singling flame. Outlined against them were the pitiful lines of refugees. Many too weak to come, many collapsed and unheeded, they huddled in the streets.

The night of the evacuation was a night of loneliness and despair.

Tugboat Walkout Is Ended

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 5 (AP) — Some 250 tugboat workers were back on the job today, ending a four-day walkout which had seriously curtailed commercial shipping business at the port of Norfolk.

The men went back at midnight following approval of a new contract worked out last night at a meeting of officials of the union and Norfolk's two largest tug firms — The Curtis Bay Towing company and McAllister Brothers, Inc.

Terms of the new contract provide for wage increases averaging about 14 per cent, an undisclosed increase in the number of vacation days and a reduction in the work week from 48 to 40 hours.

Employees of the two companies reacted just about what they wanted, according to Harry L. Fyfe, president of the local AFL-Union Marine Division of the International Longshoremen's Union.

Workers under the old contract had received between $100 and $137.50 monthly on towboat boats, $270.84 to $680 monthly on coastwise boats and $1.00 to $1.50 an hour on harbor boats.

ROSE LOCKED OUT OF HOME BY HIS WIFE

New York, Jan. 5 (AP) — Showgirl Billy Rose, locked out of his lavishly furnished home by his estranged wife, Eleanor Holm, wants to get back in to keep an eye on her art and silver collections.

Rose's wife, the former swimming star, started a separation suit over her husband's romance with blonde Joyce Mathews, former wife of Comedian Milton Berle.

Miss Holm won $700 a week in temporary alimony while the case is pending and also the right to stay at the five-story Beckman Place home.

In a Supreme court affidavit yesterday, Rose asked for an injunction giving him the right to "enter by force and leave the mansion any time."

Rose said he was worried about a newspaper report that his wife had nullified a valuable Rembrandt painting "behind a front door" and that any attempt to force the door open would destroy the painting for which I paid $75,000.

Rose added that he did not know whether the report was true, but that there was $250,000 worth of irreplaceable art treasures in his house — plus an antique English silver collection.

He further contended that his apartment over the Zigzag Theater is too small for entertaining for adequate business talks.

Miss Mathews stashed the jewels last summer in the Zigzag apartment while she was there with Rose.

Rose also told the court that Miss Holm changed the locks on the door of the Beckman Place home and deposited his art and silver treasures in a basement laundry locker.

His petition was scheduled for hearing Jan. 14.

Mayor, 5 Others to Tour Engine, Electrical Plants

Six local men, the Mayor, two members of the council, two special committee members and the water and light plant superintendent will leave Sunday on an extensive tour to view various electrical plants and "dual-fuel" engine factories.

Making the trip will be Mayor John L. Wilson, Jr., Ernest O'Neal, Chairman, and George W. Robison, a member of a special committee appointed, Alderman Howard Byers and Joe Jones and Walter and Light Plant Superintendent Clyde Zinn.

The trip is at the invitation, and incidentally the expense, of three companies who manufacture "dual-fuel" engines. At various cities they will view the engine plants and electrical plants in which the engines are used.

It is the plan of the group to gather all information possible that would be applicable in expanding the local electrical plant. Mr. Wilson said today that the first phase of an expansion program as recently submitted in a survey would cost about $787,000. This is a steam generating setup.

By converting to the "dual-fuel" type engine we have been told that it is possible to save from $387,000 to $437,000. That's the object of the trip — to see, if possible, whether or not we can save something. All information we get will be placed before the general committee and studied at length before any decision is made, the mayor said.

Companies bearing expenses of the group are Cooper-Bussmeyer, Fairbanks-Morse and Norberg. Co. Their representatives will meet the group at various points and conduct them through factories and electrical plants.

The tour will carry them from Hope, leaving at 8:30 Sunday night, to St. Louis. From there they'll go to Palmory, Mo. and back to St. Louis. From St. Louis they'll go to Chicago, from there to Beloit, Wis., then to Milwaukee and return to Chicago.

From Chicago the committee goes to Mt. Vernon, Ohio, from there to Grove City, Pa. and then to Pittsburgh where they catch a train for home. They will be gone most of next week.

Cable Derails 50 Cars of Train
Columbus, O. Jan 3 (AP) — A spool of steel cable fell from the floor of a box car last night, derailing 50 cars in two freight trains and setting off explosions of gasoline and ammunition.

Three persons were injured by shrapnel as a carload of 20-millimeter shells exploded sporadically for three hours. None of the injuries was serious.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX
SURELY Edna's appearance last Sunday had had nothing whatever to do with that long-ago incident that brought the friendly feelings between Barth and Ivan Browksi.

"I have a feeling," Constance said, "that she came up to see someone. Possibly Donald."

"Donald?"

She nodded. "He is her instructor. He has all of his students practically eating out of his hand, I understand. And Edna, you know, is very susceptible."

"Well, she saw him, all right.
They stood outside talking together for quite a while after church."

"Oh, dear."

"I know! I know! There'll be some people who'll make something out of that."

He began a familiar tattoo with his fingers, and with a little sign she picked up a sock from the pile on the table beside her. "This never seems to get any smaller," he said.

"Naturally. You mend one pair and add three more."

"I can't help it. I don't have time. This great house to keep clean—" She paused for a moment. "I have a confession to make. The mends got into a few of these, and I had to throw some out."

"Thank goodness."

She laughed. "That's what I say! But why should you? You're minus several pairs of socks."

"It's my grief to see you waging an unending battle with them."

She laughed again, a joyous sound. "You're sweet, Barth. You don't care what happens to your socks, just so the pile gets smaller for me."

He cocked an eyebrow at her.
"I hope you appreciate what a model husband I am."

"I do, my dear. I do."

Silence again, broken only by the crack and tinkle of sleet against glass and the more comforting murmur of the fire in the fireplace. After a moment Constance spoke again.

"I miss Virginia and Philip,
don't you?"

"Yes. How long will they be gone?"

"She said about two weeks. They went south. I don't know where they spent Christmas."

"It seemed like a sudden decision, that trip."

"Yes, Barth."

"What is it?"

"Ought I to give up her friendship?" Without waiting for an answer, she went on. "She would understand, I'm sure. She would want me to do what is best for you and our church."

Porkers Blast Hope But Local Juniors Win

The undefeated Texarkana Razorbacks made Hope another victim last night by a 40 to 20 score but the local juniors evened the count with a 40 to 19 victory.

The tall, experienced Porkers were simply too much for the Hope lads, and there was little doubt as to the outcome after the first few minutes.

Hope's Bobkittens had no trouble with the visiting juniors behind the H-point shooting of Billy Russell.

Tuesday night Hope entertains two teams from Gurdon.
